D.C. Opportunity Scholarship Program

Published February 2023

About the Directory

Dear Family:

We are pleased that you and your family are part of, or interested in the D.C. Opportunity Scholarship Program (OSP). One way we assist families in utilizing the program to its fullest potential is by helping you make informed decisions about schools. We have created the Participating School Directory to provide families with basic information on each participating private school. We urge you to start the school search process as early as possible. Some schools stop accepting new applications as early as December of the current year. Please note that Serving Our Children can assist with application fees and with your private school application. As you begin your search for a school, it is our hope that the directory will help you find the right one for your student(s). To help you get started, the directory contains:

- Comprehensive school profiles on each participating school
- A step-by-step guide on how to apply to private schools
- General admission testing information
- Information on other financial resources

Additionally, included on the website are maps of OSP participating schools by zip code and schools listed by Ward. The directory is a great starting point; however, it may not contain everything you need to know before applying to or choosing a school. We strongly encourage you to visit school websites, attend open houses and/or tours, and contact admissions staff to answer any additional questions you may have.

SOC is also available to assist you with applying to a participating private school. If you would like help or guidance in applying to a private school, you may:

- Schedule a one-on-one appointment with our staff. Our staff can meet with you virtually or in our office.
- Call 1-888-329-6884
- Email Natasha Yeargin at natashay@servingourfamiliesdc.org

Please note: The details contained in the school profile pages are self-reported by each school in the fall. Admissions details pertain to the upcoming 2023-24 school year. All other information, including tuition amounts, pertains to the current 2022-23 school year. Be sure to check with the schools directly for the most up-to-date information. Tuition information for the upcoming school year typically is available beginning in the spring.

As always, if you have any questions, please email info@servingourchildrencdc.org or call the Program Team at 1.888.DC.YOUTH (1.888.329.6884). Walk-in hours are available Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday from 11am-3pm.

Sincerely,

Rachel Sotsky
Executive Director, Serving Our Children

School Profiles

Important Notes:

The maximum scholarship amount offered by Serving Our Children is capped under federal law. Some schools have tuitions and/or fees above the maximum scholarship amount Serving Our Children is permitted to provide. However, many participating schools will offer supplemental financial support or assistance to OSP students. Parents interested in supplemental financial support should apply for such assistance as early as possible.

The current Opportunity Scholarship Program cap is $10,204 for Kindergarten through Eighth grades and $15,307 for Ninth through Twelfth grades. These amounts are subject to annual inflationary adjustments.

For tuition, fees, and supplemental financial support, please inquire with each school for specific information related to:

- Additional fees above tuition (example: books, uniforms, etc.)
- Tuition discounts for siblings or religious affiliation
- Availability of waivers for application or testing fees
- Availability of supplemental financial aid or payment plans for fees above the scholarship award amount
- Current tuition information. Updated tuition amounts are typically released by schools beginning in the spring.

School information is self-reported by the schools and is the most recent as of this publication date. Be sure to check with each school directly for the most up-to-date information on school programs, admissions deadlines, and tuition and fees.

Highlight from Mission Statement:

Self-Discovery, Skills of mind, Generosity of heart. Field's mission statement is known well by every teacher and every student. Its three elements are, to us, inseparable. To achieve self-discovery, students need to develop the essential skills of critical thinking, writing, problem-solving, and discussion. Self-understanding without generosity of heart in the community is not truly meaningful. But, together, these elements are what The Field School considers the goals of a great education.

- Email Natasha Yeargin at natashay@servingourfamiliesdc.org

How to Apply to Private Schools

Step 1: Research Participating OSP Schools (Late August)

- Think about what you're looking for in a school
- Location - Do you want a school near where you live or work?
- Religion - Do you want a religious or non-religious school?
- Activities - What types of services and activities (i.e. aftercare, sports) do you want?
- Review the school's website to see if the school offers what you are looking for
- Contact the school for an application and schedule a time to visit
- Attend open houses, tours, and shadow visits
- Ask questions to get detailed information on the application process

Step 2: Mark Your Calendar for Important Dates (September)

- Be sure to create a calendar of deadlines for all of the schools you plan to apply to
- Application deadline be sure that your application is submitted by this day; be mindful that some school's priority deadlines are sooner than others!
- Shadow and Open House Dates Check school website - These events allow you to visit the school's campus and get a feel for the environment your child will be learning in. Try your best to attend!
- Financial Aid – some schools offer financial aid. If you are interested in applying, be sure to submit your information by or before the deadline.

Step 3: Complete Applications (October)

- Follow directions thoroughly
- Many schools have step-by-step directions to make the application process easier; ask schools if you have questions
- Submit any additional documents (essays, transcripts, and teacher recommendations, etc.)
- Letters of recommendation early (and from more than one person if required)
- Transcript/grade copies from each school your student has attended
- Many schools require admissions tests; inquire what test is needed for the school
- Identify yourself as an OSP family; schools may waive or defer application fees, and many schools offer supplemental financial assistance; As an OSP family, you're eligible to be reimbursed for up to five (5) application fees you pay out-of-pocket, as well as admissions test fees you pay by Serving Our Children. Please be sure to keep your receipts.
- Ask if financial aid is available
 - Applying for financial aid does not lessen your chance of being accepted
 - Financial aid applications are usually included with the admissions packet. If not, ask for financial aid forms deadline information

Step 4: Essays and Interviews (Early November)

- Present your student's strengths
- Have your student tell his/her unique story (for the student portion of the application, if required)
- Share the fact that your is applying to or participating in the D.C. Opportunity Scholarship Program

Step 5: Submitting Applications (late November-Early December)

- Proofread your applications and attach all requested information before submitting. Remember to submit application before on by the deadline.
- After submitting, follow up with the school to make sure your application is complete
- While waiting for a decision, check in with the school from time-to-time to see if there is anything else they may need
- Admissions decision
- Accepted students:
 - Schedule another visit if your child is accepted to more than one school
 - Ask about your financial aid award
 - Decide whether your student will be attending. If yes, give the school a signed School Placement Form.
